MILESTONE

FOREWORD

Plainfield is an old town. Walking through its streets, one can see many landmarks which commemorate historical events. Our town, although important before the 1880's, got its name, "the Queen City," at that time from a now famous western city. At the close of the nineteenth century, Plainfield was known as "the Denver of the East." As Denver was called "the Queen City," people were quick to give the same name to our town. It was here that so many of us have grown up and attended school.

The theme of this year's MILESTONE encompasses both the cardinal, the school's symbol, and the element of nostalgia, which is presented by the use, on the divider pages, of pictures representing our historic background. As you peruse this volume, you will see how we, too, have added to the heritage of Plainfield and to the traditions of Plainfield High School.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Wallace F. Gleason
Principal

As you grow older, memories fade, but through this mirror you will be able to recall your happy times. Your friends, who mean so much to you now, will travel to far away places. You will remember them as they look in this book. History may bring fame to them or pass them by, but whether there be success or failure, there will always be the pleasant past. Here at this school you have had some of your most enjoyable times. Recall, if you will, the Sophomore Dance, the Senior Prom, all the games, the friend with whom you sat, the after school snack, the date that meant so much. This book will be on your shelf as an encyclopedia, filled with memories, to which you may turn and recapture your youth as the years leave their mark on you. Enjoy your youth; you pass this way only once.

Wallace F. Gleason, Principal

Mr. Gilbert Young

Jim Gibriano receives helpful advice from Mr. Young.

The senior class of 1962 would like to take time out, as an entire class, to thank Mr. Gilbert Young for his sympathetic understanding as our class advisor. Mr. Young has been with us for the last three years after taking over for Mr. Lonsky when we were sophomores. Since his first day he has shown a sincere interest in every one of us, and knowingly and helpfully he has guided us through many difficult times when the way seemed unclear.

We thank you, Mr. Young, for your guidance, your interest, and your friendship. We know that you will always be remembered with gratitude.

GUIDANCE

A senior in search of the right college for him . . . a sophomore bewildered by the wide choice of subjects . . . a student looking for part-time employment . . . These are just a few of the more common problems brought to the counselors of the P.H.S. Guidance Department. The student finds his counselor ready to help him at any time from his first day as a sophomore until his graduation, and he can expect to receive expert information on any problem he may have.

As he gets to know his counselor through many meetings during the course of the year, the student finds that the counselor is not merely someone to help him with school problems, he is also ready to help solve personal problems, problems related to the home and other aspects of life; the student finds his counselor truly "a friend in need."

This year, under the direction of a full-time department head for the first time, Mr. William Sette, the Guidance Department may be expected to function more smoothly and to be, as always, a force instrumental in assuring a happy and successful school year for all the students of P.H.S.

ENGLISH

English is the basis of all our studies in school. For this reason, the English department, under the direction of Mr. George R. Strub, performs an important function: to instruct students in the components of the language as a medium of oral and written expression; equally important, the appreciation of literature, both American and foreign, is also a teaching aim of this department.

This year the English department has extended the "special classes" to include sophomore and junior years. Next year this program will cover all three grades. This accelerated plan permits top students to cover more material and to have the opportunity to display their talents more fully.

The demands of today's society are stressing the means and art of communication. The English department had this objective in view when the yearly program was planned.

The Golden Age of Pericles, the greatest period of Greek culture . . . the decline and fall of the Roman Empire . . . the glorious Renaissance . . . These are some of the great events of history which have shaped the world as we know it today.

Men have always been interested in history, and the Social Studies Department, under the direction of Mrs. Marcia Westpfahl, offers a history program which fosters increased interest and encourages study in this field. Through courses in European and United States History, the student can learn a great deal about the origins of our system of government, our customs, and our way of life.

To those students interested in specialized study, courses in economics, social psychology, and World Geography are available.

The current events of today will become the history of tomorrow; therefore, much attention is given to the study of current world affairs. New discoveries are constantly revising our knowledge of history. Because of this constant revision and addition, interest in history continues unabated through the years.

MATHEMATICS

John H. Boyer, (Department Head)
Muhlenberg, PH.B.; Columbia, M.A.

George Bubrick
Pennsylvania State, B.A.; N.Y.U., M.A.

Mathematics, the science of numbers, is a study that helps to formulate the basis of clear, concise thinking. Math also has a more common aim: Whether one is reading a clock or a calendar, an understanding of numbers is necessary. Everyone should be aware of the use of numbers in his life. For this reason the Mathematics Department, under the supervision of Mr. Boyer, offers the student a fundamental course of study in general math. For more advanced work, in preparation for college, the student may take Intermediate Algebra, Analytic Geometry, and trigonometry.

According to Mr. John Boyer, the department head, this year a new course was offered to students interested in extended work in the field of math. This course, held on one afternoon every other week, included subjects not offered in regular class work. Under the direction of the Mathematics Department, the students discussed advanced math applications and also heard lectures given by outside guests. This afternoon class provided an excellent opportunity for students to increase their interest in and knowledge of mathematics.

Every year this department is expanding and improving its program. As a scholastic requirement and a basic essential in daily living, mathematics deserves the attention of all students.

SCIENCE

The Plainfield High School Science Department, under the direction of Mr. Edmund Lonsky, realizes that science is of the utmost importance both now and in the future; it could possibly be the controlling factor in the race for supremacy in the world.

In order to prepare every student for this future, the department offers informative, up-to-date courses. College preparatory courses include biology, chemistry, and physics. General courses are offered in biology, chemistry, and general science.

This year, in keeping with the increased stress upon science, new laboratories have been built; and a new course in chemistry was offered to sophomores. As juniors, they will have the chance to take Advanced Biology.

The curriculum offers the student opportunities to experiment, interpret results, and develop individual thinking, the all-important qualification for the world of today and tomorrow.

LANGUAGES

The major objective of the Language Department is oral expression. Our language laboratory, used by all foreign language students, provides an opportunity for the students to develop their speaking ability. In the near future a recording room will be established in which the teachers will be able to prepare tapes for laboratory use.

Emphasis is also placed on reading and translating of the languages. This year, for the first time, there is a fourth year French class. This course will again be offered next year.

Language students also participate in linguistic ability contests. In the spring of each year, the French, German, and Spanish national contests are held; Latin students compete in the Baird Memorial Sight Translation Contest.

Language banquets are held at the end of each year. At this time, the students can put some of their newly acquired skills to use.

Mrs. Katherine de Vlaming

INDUSTRIAL, HOME & FINE ARTS

Students often reveal special talents when exposed to the Industrial, Home, and Fine Arts courses. Here, imaginative ideas can actually take form as pupils learn new skills and gain valuable experience at the same time.

Many fields are open to the students: Budding artists are taught the fundamentals of art and design; future homemakers can learn the secrets of preparing a good meal, the intricacies of sewing, and methods of keeping an attractive house; and students wishing to gain insight into human relationships may take the Modern Living course.

Boys who take Industrial Arts learn diverse skills. They are able to put these attributes into practical use in the auto, electric, machine, metal, and woodwork shops while being taught the mechanics of specialized tools and power machinery.

In this department, headed by Mr. Kermit Whitehead, the foundations for a useful and successful life are formed.

COMMERCIAL

For those who contemplate a career in business as secretaries, typists, or file clerks the commercial department is just the one to prepare them for the business world.

The courses offered vary. Besides the basic subjects of typing and stenography, there is, for the potential secretary, a course in secretarial practice. Courses in business math, clerical office practice, and bookkeeping are available for those considering positions as clerical workers. Additional courses, available to the aspiring clerk who desires to strenghten his business knowledge, are Junior Business Training, Business Law and Merchandising, Salesmanship, and Economics Geography.

Mrs. Ruth Wyer, department head, is hopeful that a new course of shorthand for personal use will soon be an addition to the present course of study. For the students who wish to become more proficient in accurate and speedy note taking this course would certainly be an asset.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Daily, during the physical education period, boys and girls of assorted abilities and energies busy themselves in building their muscles and hardening their bodies. Gym groups participate in sports, games, fundamentals, and skill building. Avid athletes may, in addition, choose swimming, golf, tennis, archery, or any one of many competitive sports.

Important in the gym curriculum is health instruction and drivers' training. Pupils participating in the Drivers' Education course are given first-hand experience as well as an opportunity for classroom study of road rules and driving safety. The girls' physical education course has been organized into a new "block system" of health training this year in which a group devotes one entire marking period to the study of health.

With its program combining active physical as well as health education, the Physical Education Department works to build healthy and strong individuals.

MUSIC

Standing: Louis F. Hooker, Southeastern La. College, B.M.E. Sitting: Michael N. Sawczak, Southeastern La. College, B.M.E.

Music is the "universal language" spoken by all. It takes no special ear training to be able to sing the Alma Mater or the songs heard over the radio. We need only the capable direction of Mr. F. Louis Hooker with Mr. Michael Sawczak providing the background. The results of their work can be heard resounding through the halls at all hours of the day.

Music provides a link to the past, an insight to the future, and a basis of understanding for today. It is like a genie, allowing each person to express himself and to be heard; and it can be enjoyed by all.

The task set before our music directors is to help us appreciate all that music is or can be.

LIBRARY

Right: Josephine Miller, De Pauw University, A.B.; Columbia University, M.A.; B.S.

At anytime during the schoolday, you will find our school library filled with students seeking information pertinent to their classwork or personal interest; for they know that there, with the aid of our able librarians, Josephine E. Miller and Constance Smith, they willl be able to find information on almost any subject.

Our library contains many informative books and pamphlets, as well as records and film strips. The many fiction books provide a good selection, both for enjoyment and assigned reading. There are also current magazines and newspapers to help the student keep informed on the events of our fast-changing world.

SECRETARIAL AND CLERICAL STAFF

Mr. Wallace Gleason, principal, and Miss Carolyn Reich, his secretary.

What would you do if you had to type up a daily absentee list with a total varying from one hundred to several hundred students, according to the weather, each season? From September to June, the P.H.S. secretarial and clerical staff does this job and many others with cheerful efficiency. To keep our school running smoothly, the staff does such varied paper work as letter writing, mimeographing, switchboard operating, transcribing of records, stencil cutting, and telephoning. As aids to Mr. Gleason and Dr. Francis; to the Placement, Counselor, and Attendance offices; and—as we all know—to the students, this staff is greatly appreciated.

CAFETERIA STAFF

Our cafeteria is invaded three times a day by a ravenous student body eager to eat the delicious hot and cold platters, sandwiches, and desserts already prepared by our kitchen staff. With the help of government subsidies, our kitchen staff is able to offer a wide variety of good food to the students without denting the teen-age expense account. We appreciate the extra effort the staff makes to please us.

CUSTODIAL STAFF

Can you imagine yourself walking into school on graduation night amid ten feet of discarded papers, pencils, lunch bags, ice cream wrappers, and the like? You might, if it weren't for the custodial staff, under the direction of Mr. John Broadbent.

You can thank our custodians, also, for keeping us warm during the winter, for lighting our classrooms, for supplying our equipment, and for keeping the outside of P.H.S. neat and well maintained.

Think, for a moment, of the work your mother has in tidying up after you. Multiply this effort by the number of our students, and you can better appreciate, and be grateful for, the work done by our custodians.

Mr. Wallace Van Horn checks gauges.

Mr. John Broadbent, Head Custodian, repairs outside railing.

MEDICAL STAFF

Can you guess who hears the most excuses during one day? Not the teachers, but Miss Whelan, our school nurse. Into her office walk a number of maladies — from hypochondria to serious illness. Miss Whelan must discern which students simply want to miss a class and which ones are actually sick. Aside from this responsibility, our medical staff takes precautionary measures against diseases.

Dr. Day administers the T. B. patch test to the entire student body each year. He also examines our eyes and teeth and looks after the health of the high school athletic teams.

We extend our sincere gratitude to our medical staff for helping us to maintain a high standard of health in our school.

Miss Whelan treats Bob Sempervive.

At publication date we received word of the death of the beloved Dr. Day. Words are inadequate to express our sorrow. He will be missed by all.

SENIORS

HISTORY OF THE

High school—one of the stepping stones in life—a time when we are not yet adults but certainly not children. It is a time to establish new and lasting friendships, learn more about the world around us, plan for our vocations, work for greater maturity, and become involved in numerous activities as we lay the foundation for the future.

Our first year found us entering the school as the last Freshman Class because P.H.S. was to become a senior high school exclusively. We soon began to feel at home in the huge building; and we elected Bill Burfeind, Bob Sikowski, Gail Garrett, and Harriett Carmichael to guide us through the year. As our class adviser, Mr. Lonsky offered us encouragement and help.

Our first social event, the Freshman Frolic, brought us closer together as a class. And we can still remember our first football game when we cheered like crazy for "the glory of Plainfield High."

We began our Sophomore year with a feeling of confidence and anticipation. With Bill Burfeind, Bob Sikowski, Marianne Engler, and Harriet Carmichael as our officers, we sponsored our first dance open to the entire student body, "A Night in the Orient." We began to look forward to being upperclassmen.

CLASS OF 1962

Junior year was heralded with the flash of school rings. Our first money raising project, the sale of P.H.S. pennants, helped to bring our class out of debt. We remember the vigorous campaign for senior class officers; and we looked forward to the day we could turn our rings as seniors. Our executives — Jerry Stiles, Rose Hamrah, Marianne Engler, and Harriet Carmichael — began working with Mr. Young, our class adviser, to make this year the best yet.

Finally, we entered school for our last year. Mary Hastings, a participant in the American Field Service program, was the first foreign exchange student from our school; and in return, we received Mustafa Gürsell, a young man from Turkey, who was a very welcome addition to our class.

Our elected officers — Tom Merritt, Lou Perretta, Shirley Cathie, and Lorraine Draper — helped the class in drawing up the traditional privileges and in creating a permanent Finance Committee. Members of the cast of Jane Eyre were madly learning lines in preparation for our Senior Play. We exchanged views on future jobs and college choices while waiting for that day of days when we would join the ranks of alumni as the biggest and probably the best class to graduate from P.H.S.

"Moose"

Who is the person we find in Surprise Lake with all his clothes on, or laughing to keep from crying, or winning the P.H.S. ping-pong championship? Why, it's Moose, our foreign exchange student whom we at P.H.S. have come to know as a friendly, intelligent, fun-loving student.

Moose likes to read-novels especially-but his history course seems to take up all his spare time. Sports are what Moose enjoys; and in Istanbul, Turkey, he was the second-seeded tennis player under nineteen years of age. Although he finds American life very fast, his only complaint about the United States is that it's too far from Turkey; and Moose always seems to be yearning for Turkish food.

As we look back upon our high school days, we will remember Moose as a sportsman, a good student, and an all-around, wonderful guy.

"TELL ME A BEDTIME STORY" — E. Carhart in scene with Jeannie Bagiackas.

JANE EYRE

What was the mystery surrounding Thornfield? Jane Eyre, the newly arrived governess, was repelled by it; Mr. Rochester, the owner of this estate, felt cursed by it. Yet, through the unquestioning and understanding devotion of Jane, Rochester evolved from a bitter and cynical man into one capable of love and compassion.

Members of the cast of Jane Eyre, written by Jane Kendall, were the heroine, Eileen Carhart; her master, Mr. Rochester, William Switky; Adele, his little ward, Jeanne Bagiackas; Mrs. Fairfax, Karen Leach; and Leah, Merry Stetson.

We wish to acknowledge the hard work, time, and energy that Miss Mixer and the cast spent on this play. It was a job well done. It always is!

JUNIORS ANTICIPATE SENIOR YEAR!

We, the junior class, eagerly await the days when we can turn our class rings right-side up and become full-fledged seniors. Looking back on our first two years, we can appreciate the heckling we were given as underclassmen.

In our sophomore year, we elected Carol Belardo, Lee Merrill, Mary Crowe, and Peter Ciampa as our officers. We met each other at our Sophomore Class Dance. Under the guidance of our class advisor, Mr. Otto, we enjoyed our first year at P.H.S.

As juniors, we initiated a new method of building our treasury — class dues. By donating 25¢ a year, we found that fund-raising sales were unnecessary. This year, the theme for our class dance was "Splendor in the Snow." As officers, we elected Pete Ciampa, president; Walter Frank, vice-president; Lee Merrill, secretary; Alan Sugarman, treasurer.

With confidence gained from past experience, we look forward to the future.

SOPHOMORES HAVE LARGEST CLASS IN HISTORY

The Class of '64, the largest class in the history of Plainfield High, has completed its first year in P.H.S. The year was begun with the election of class officers: Forrester Lee, president; Gordon Maas, vice-president; Joe Young, treasurer; Sue Schmidt, secretary. After overcoming the initial confusion, the sophomores spent an exciting and challenging first year in the high school, highlighted by the Sophomore Dance, which was sponsored by the Class Council with the assistance of Mr. McCurdy, the class advisor. Now that the initial year is completed, each of the sophomores is looking forward to two more exciting years in P.H.S.

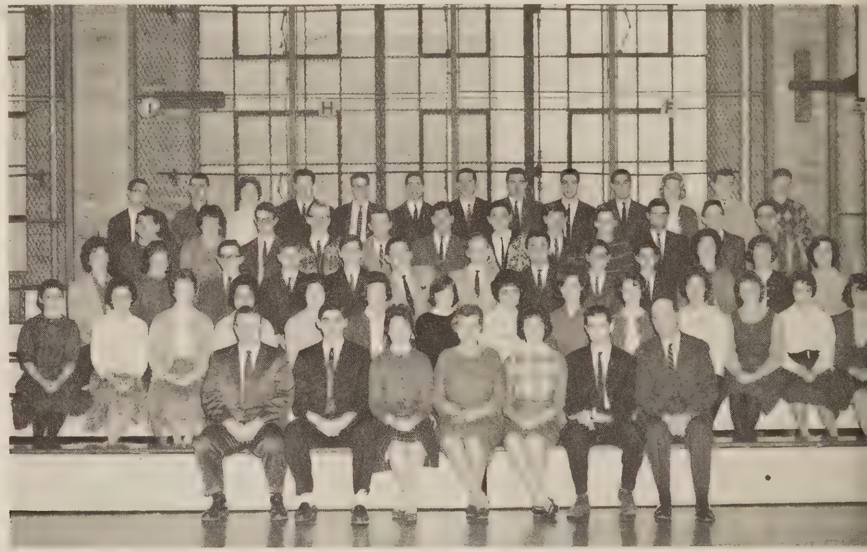
STUDENTS AND FACULTY

STUDENT COUNCIL

If a student should unsuspectingly wander into the cafeteria during activity period on a Friday morning, he might think he had been mysteriously whisked away to Washington to observe Congress in session. Although the organization he is watching is not conducting business on a national level, it is the governing agent of the P.H.S. student body. This group is, of course, the Student Council, which, under the advisorship of Mr. Karl Fritz and Mr. Richard Kern, meets regularly to plan school projects and improvements. Through the work of the various committees and the interchange of ideas between the homerooms and the representatives, the Student Council enables the student to voice his opinions; to have the opinions considered by the faculty; and, perhaps, to have the opinions put into effect.



First Row: Mr. Kern, C. Hewitt, H. Carmichael, Dr. Francis, F. Darwin, A. Nasmith, Mr. Fritz. Second Row: L. Uslan, E. Serido, A. Morrison, C. Belardo, C. Bernstein, M. Ungerman, C. Bullen, R. EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The tattered remnant of a shirtsleeve dangles ominously on a sign which reads, "A meeting of the Executive Council is in session; enter at your own risk." Once every week this sign hangs on the door of the Student Council office to insure privacy while the members of the Executive Council plan the agendas for Student Council meetings and discuss matters concerning the Student body of P.H.S. Those brave enough to defy the warning on the door will find that the "devoted dozen" of the Executive Council are vitally concerned with the welfare of the school.

SERVE TOGETHER

USHER SQUAD

Without these valuable people, confusion, perhaps even riot, would reign; but, through the efforts of our Usher Squad, there is order and dignity. These students, chosen at the end of their junior year, assist in seating people at all assemblies and at graduation exercises. The guiding hand of this helpful group is Miss Nora Conahey.

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE

Under the capable direction of Miss Rita Kramer, the members of the Assembly Committee successfully carry out a difficult task. Throughout the year, they must entertain the entire student body by presenting a diversified selection of assembly programs. Creative thinking, extensive planning, and hours of hard work go into each assembly, as is evident in the end product — entertainment and edification!

First Row: A. Boyer, E. Smart, T. Hoffman, Miss Kramer, A. Gartenberg, S. Sanders, C. Rose, C. Brokaw. Second Row: J. Armour, R. Perretta, J. Beishke, A. Friedberg, D. Manglesdorff, S. AIR RAID SQUAD

In these times when aerial bombing could be a reality, the Air Raid Squad stand ready, willing, and able to help us. The members of this club are charged with the responsibility of keeping silence and order in the halls and keeping students away from areas of glass during the drills. The Student Council chose these students early in the school year to be on the squad. Their advisor is Miss Conahey.

VOX POPULI . . .

The Entrée is very important to the students of P.H.S. Not only does it inform us of events past and future, but it also, through its interviews, helps us to get better acquainted with some of our classmates. This year, under the direction of Mr. Peltzman, the Entrée scored a first with the publication of a six page edition. Everyone will agree that the Entrée is the paper to read whether your interest is in editorials, news, or sports.

ENTREE BUSINESS STAFF

These diligent students are responsible for the many varied activities which are necessary before an issue can be published. Mr. A. Hamilton Otto is the able advisor of this group.

PURVEYORS OF MEMORIES

Because the editors of the Milestone are chosen at the end of the preceeding year, early in September they are able to organize their staffs and begin work on your yearbook. Under the guidance of Mr. Edgar Carney of the English department, each staff division works diligently on administration and club write-ups, compiles a list of seniors, and sorts questionnaires; they also choose the design and texture of the cover and help in any possible way to make the yearbook a success.

This year the theme is built around the historic aspect of Plainfield and our school emblem, the Cardinal.

MILESTONE BUSINESS AND ADVERTISING STAFF

Two of the clubs that have an active part in the success of the yearbook are the Milestone Business Staff and the Milestone Advertising Staff. Under the able guidance of Mr. Warren Sterling, the Business Staff procures funds for the yearbook and publicizes the sale to the P.H.S. students. In charge of soliciting advertisements from local merchants is the advertising staff, headed by Sue Johnson and Debbie Hyman, and advised by Mr. Arthur Smith. Without these indispensable groups, the anticipated June appearance of the memory-laden yearbook would be impossible.

BACH, BEETHOVEN AND BERLIN

Every Wednesday during the activity period, the dedicated members of Chorus troop down to the music room for rehearsal. Their hard work was not in vain as we were aware at Christmas time and in the spring at the choral festivals.

At Christmas the small mixed chorus sang songs of various nations to accompany the picturesque tableaux.

In the spring all the choruses worked together to present the Spring Concert, a most outstanding event.

Those girls in the maroon robes — who sang for school assemblies, for outside organizations, and at their annual choral festival — belong to the Girls' Chorus. Under the artful direction of Mr. Hooker, the girls learned many different types of songs and varied ways in which to present them. That they were successful is evident!

BOYS' CHORUS

Remember the Monday and Wednesday rehearsals? The members of the Boys' Chorus, directed by Mr. Louis Hooker, do remember; that is when they prepared their selections, varying from classical to popular music. These selections were performed during outside engagements and in school choral programs — and performed nobly, too!

At times, representatives from industries have come and conducted the sessions. Mr. J. Boyer, head of mathematics department, doubles as the advisor and teacher.

RADIO CLUB

The Radio Club, under the expert guidance of Mr. Pearson, affords the licensed "hams" of Plainfield High a chance to make "QSO's" with radio amateurs the world over, as well as an opportunity to work on the school's "rigs", with a resultant improvement in their knowledge of radio theory. With the help of the older members, newcomers to the field learn theory and code and get their "ticket", enabling them to get "on the air."

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club, advised by Mr. Richard Booher, provides enjoyment and a chance to use one's skill and intellect at a different and provocative game. A regular schedule of meets with other schools was arranged; and, as of the moment, P.H.S. is undefeated.

DRAMA CLUB

If you aspire to become another Bernhardt, or perhaps a Brando, the best place for you is the Drama Club. Of course, you don't have to have such aspirations to join this club; for if you did, we might have about 100 Bernhardts and Brandos graduating from P.H.S. each year.

STAGE ELECTRICIANS' CLUB

As you walked through the halls of P.H.S., have you wondered about the identity of the busy, bustling man who was hurrying to a classroom with a projector under one arm and films under the other? At assemblies, school dances, plays, or community functions, perhaps you wanted to know who worked the intricate lighting and the public address system. When a record player or projector broke down in class, did you ever wonder who the boys are that fixed the machine? Well, that bustling indefatigable man is Mr. Eric Nelson, who advises a group of boys who do all the other jobs mentioned above. This active and important group is called the Stage Electricians' Club, a group to which we say, "Thank you, Fellows!"

The newly formed Henry Banta Chapter of the National Honor Society, sponsored by Mr. Michael Nittoli, began the year with a formal induction of members at an assembly of the student body. The purpose of this organization is to recognize students on the basis of high scholastic ability, good character, leadership, and service. Members, chosen by a faculty board, pledge themselves to uphold the standards of N.H.S. In addition, the organization serves the school through various projects, such as participation in the Student Council tutoring program. N.H.S. hopes to attract interest in the importance of a well rounded personality.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Starting off the season with a smash, the varsity football team romped through the first four games of the Central Jersey Group IV Conference undefeated. On October 21, here at the Randolph Road field, however, the Cardinals bowed to a towering Linden line, which gave the Smithmen one of their two defeats. The other defeat came on Thanksgiving Day when we handed Westfield the turkey and dressing by fumbling three times while within the opponent's 10 yard line. Plainfield still came out with a great winning season of 7 wins and 2 losses.

MOST SUCCESSFUL SEASON!

The Plainfield netmen, under the direction of Coach Gil Young, completed another highly successful year with a record of fifteen wins and three losses. Two matches were called off because of inclement weather, and another game was not completed. The high point of the season was the win over Westfield, ending a Blue Devil winning streak of twenty-nine games.

Tom Clash, Ted MacDermott, Fred DuBow, and Roger North filled the single slots, while the doubles team of Dave Black and Skip Craig created havoc on opposing players. All but DuBow and McDermott will be returning for the '62 season.

CHEERLEADERS

"Fight, team, fight! On to victory," is the cry voiced by our lively cheerleaders as they cheer our teams on and heighten our school spirit. The captain, Elaine Serido, and the co-captain, Jean Weinraub, lead these girls as they help the teams toward victory. Defying the elements, our cheerleaders carry us through a year of basketball, football, and pep rallies under the guidance of Miss Joyce.

CHEERLEADERS go all out to boost spirit of fans.

GIRLS' SPORTS

Tennis anyone? How about golf, swimming, or archery? Bows and arrows, balls and racquets, golf clubs, and bathing suits are found about the school throughout the year. All of the above mentioned sports are sponsored by the Girls' Athletic Association. Each of these activity areas gives athletically-inclined girls a chance to become proficient in the sport of their choice. We believe that this program, under the leadership of Mrs. King, is a vital function of the department.

TWIRLERS

If you hear the sound of music and see a wave of blue with a shimmer of silver, you know that the twirlers are busy at their job. Under the leadership of Janet Alexander and Carolyn Gilmore, and the sponsorship of Miss Toulouse, our twirlers help rally our spirit at all games. With great verve the twirlers perform at PHS's football games and pep rallies, so let's have three cheers for our mighty and deserving twirlers!

WHEN DA

This may have been just another year for some, but for most P.H.S. students it represented new and exciting challenges in class work, extra activities, and in our relationships with others.

September—We reluctantly returned from our summer vacations, yet we did look forward to a new year . . . We began to join clubs and to settle down to the nightly business of homework . . . The nation was saddened to hear of the death of Dag Hammarskjold.

October—The Honor Society held its first induction ceremony . . . The Yankees again won the world series, and we could feel autumn in the air . . . Football was here!

November — This month had many highlights . . . Among them were the Senior Play and a visit by Ann Landers . . . We know she's a real person now . . . The great statesman Sam Rayburn died and left vacant his post as Speaker of the House.

December—As soon as Thanksgiving was over, we began to look forward to Christmas vacation . . . While we waited, the Entree was issued with six pages, and we were entertained at the Christmas choral concert . . . World events were serious, with fighting in the Congo and the threat of "Red" Cuba.

January—An important event for our state was the inauguration of Governor Hughes . . . Seniors finished up those last applications and began the long wait . . . We wished for snow so we could have a day off.

February—This was the month for dances, with the junior class and the S DONE . . .

P.T.A. both holding one . . . It was the mid-winter slump, and all work seemed harder than usual . . . Luckily, it was a short month.

March—"The evaluators are coming." was the cry of every teacher and student . . . Important Student Council elections were held . . . The annual Interclass Play Contest was held successfully . . . All stairs were now two-way . . . As the result of a violent storm, the Jersey shore was declared a disaster area . . . Will the shore be the same this summer?

April—Always the month for Spring Fever, April was no exception this year . . . Easter vacation loomed as a pleasant relief from our winter labors . . . There were more happy faces around the corridors as seniors received notices of acceptance from colleges . . . The Band Concert! A beautiful affair!

May—The Spring Choral Concert, with music from West Side Story, was enjoyed by all . . . It was really spring, and how nice it was to pack away our woolen clothes . . . "How many days 'til graduation?"

June—The month of all months finally arrived . . . "Oh, why do we have to take exams? . . . Not only did our senior privileges go into effect, but we held a wonderful prom and an equally wonderful graduation . . . It was the best month of all.

To each of us, this year has been special in a different way. Yet, we've all come through it with the feeling that there will never again be another like it. When Day is Done . . .
